

Julia Farr Association Trust Funds Purple Orange

The Julia Farr Association is a social profit, non-government organisation working to assist people living with disability to get a fair go at everything life has to offer. We administer two trust funds designed to assist people living with disability in South Australia.

General Purpose Distribution Fund

This fund is available to assist financially disadvantaged people living with disability to access items that will improve their quality of life. Grants are limited to $3,000 per applicant within a financial year and must be allocated for at least one of the following purposes:

- Minor essential items of personal need (where a person is assessed to be financially unable to acquire such items); or
- Services of a temporary nature when other funding is not available; or
- Activities that enhance quality of life.

If applying for a technology item eg. an iPad, an automatic door opener, a communication device or other specialist equipment designed to make your life easier, an agency called Stretchy Tech is available to help you decide what could work best for you.

Stretchy Tech only charges for this service if your grant application is successful, and the costs can be included in that grant application. You do not have to use Stretchy Tech but it may assist the suitability of your application, however using Stretchy Tech does not guarantee your application will be successful.

Short Stay Holiday Distribution Fund

This fund is available to assist financially disadvantaged people living with disability to access short stay holidays in an equitable and dignified manner, at a mainstream location, and with people, of their choice. The fund aims to assist people living with disability with the costs associated with travel, such as accommodation and transport. Funds are typically granted for vacations within South Australia or other places that people can visit for a short period of time.

Grants are for amounts up to a total of $1,000 per applicant within a financial year.

In making decisions about applications, we consider:

- Nature of the person's disability
- Extent of availability of other funding sources, including the person's own resources
- Length of time since the person last had a holiday
- Extent to which the planned vacation puts the person in the role of active traveler, tourist and customer in a mainstream setting.

Guidelines

- Applications are accepted at any time and funds are distributed bi-monthly.
- Trustee decisions are guided by:
 - The trust funds available
 - The nature of previous grants awarded to the applicant
 - The role of government/public funds in the provision of relevant items and services
 - Who will own/consume the item/service, and whether the item or service will remain with the grant recipient (for example requesting an air conditioning unit for a rental property, but the air conditioning unit stays in the property when the person moves out)
- The presence of other grant-making entities better-suited to the item or service requested.

Am I eligible?

The eligibility criteria has been established to respect the original purpose of the funds as specified by the benefactor. To be eligible you must:

- Be a person aged over 18 years living with physical disability, acquired brain injury or degenerative neurological disorder; and
- Reside in South Australia; and
- Receive a disability support pension or equivalent.

How we make decisions about grant applications

It is important to us that we make the very best use of the limited funds we have available. A committee of people living with disability help us to decide this.

In coming to a decision about a grant application, some of the things we consider are:

- Is the applicant on a low income
- Will the grant give the person more control over their life
- Will the grant be used in ways that are about living an ordinary valued life
- How much is the person asking for
- Has the person included enough information to show how they will spend the grant, including how much the item will cost, and that they have found the best price
- If the grant is a part-payment for an item that costs more than the grant amount, where is the remaining money coming from to pay for the item
- Will the person be able to show that they have used the grant properly to pay for what they asked for
- Is the grant request sensible; can we easily see how the item will help the person

We hope this information helps you when making a grant application. If you have any questions regarding the form or application process, please email us at
